Plan Softball League Here

At a meeting in Supt. Byron Netzeley's office Monday evening, a committee from the Kiwanis Club discussed formation of a soft-ball league for school children as a part of the planned summer recreation program throughout the Lemon Grove School district. Channing Mason, Robert Brown, and Dick Paden worked with Mr. Netzley in arranging for service clubs and business men to sponsor the various teams to be organized. Sponsorship will involve a cost of approximately $25, which will purchase T-shirts and caps for the young players.

Students will not solicit sponsorship or funds from these groups. When 12 or 15 boys, desiring to form a team, hand in their names to the summer recreation representative of their school, they will be informed as to what organization is to sponsor them.

The elementary school league will consist of boys from the fourth, fifth, and sixth grades; the junior high league will be made up of teams from the seventh and eighth grades. If sufficient interest is shown, similar leagues will be formed for the girls in the district. All play will be under the direction of the summer recreation program, and will begin during the first week of July, for an eight week period through August.

Louis Poluzzi is summer recreation chairman for the Monterey Heights P. T. A. group, Mrs. Will represents the Vista La Mesa P. T. A. group who are furthering the project, and John Blaine is summer recreation chairman for Lemon Grove.

The summer recreation committee urges the community's interest and support of these softball leagues, and it hopes that this will be the basis for establishing permanently a soft-ball league here, and eventually for securing a lighted ball park.

A recreation program for children who were in grades one, two, or three during the past school year, will also be carried on at each school. This program will consist of reading, circle games, crafts, and music activities. The exact days and hours for this program for the tiny tots will be announced later after a recreation director has been selected.

School Trustees and Faculty Hear Educators Talk Shop

Our schools are a bridge over which the children of today can reach a better tomorrow, Dr. Cecil H. Hardesty, county superintendent of schools, told nearly 100 trustees and administrators attending the annual meeting of the San Diego County School Trustees' Association at the County Schools Service Center last Saturday (May 26.) Wilbur F. Bradley, National City, president of the Association, presided over the day-long meeting.

Dr. Hardesty spoke on the role of the school trustee in the community and pointed out that the school board works at the core of our public school system because it controls personnel, money, and the course of study. "A board member's most difficult job," Dr. Hardesty said, "is working with other board members, with the teacher and administrator, and with the public."

Dr. Charles J. Falk, assistant to the superintendent of San Diego City schools, reviewed the indiscriminate attacks being made on public education in America by A. A. Zoll of New York City through a front organization called the National Council on American Education. Zoll, said Dr. Falk, was behind the recent attack on Pasadena public schools.

"We have always had criticism," Dr. Falk said. "We welcome it because much of it is constructive and helps us to improve our schools. We have to analyze criticism to see whether it is honestly intended to be constructive." Dr. Falk said that San Diego County and City schools have so far been free of any organized attacks. He emphasized that the schools belong to all the people and are operated for all the children. "Our schools," he concluded, will be good or bad according to what the classroom teacher does day by day."

Other speakers included Dr. Jens H. Hutchens and Francis C. Darby, assistant superintendents, and Burton C. Tiffany, curriculum coordinator, of the County Office. Tiffany spoke on the need for enlarged public participation in curriculum planning now being conducted by the San Diego County Curriculum Planning Committee. He also outlined progress made on the new arithmetic course of study requested by the San Diego County Board of Education. Group discussions concluded the morning session.

Save Water Campaign on in Earnest

Water use dropped sharply on Target Day" from the normal daily average of 51 million gallons to 38,550,000 gallons, a 24 percent reduction or a saving of 12,450,000, the San Diego City Water Department measurements disclosed yesterday.

"Outstanding as the accomplishment was," M. J. Shelton, chairman of the Save Our Water Committee, said, "we still didn't hit the target exactly on the bull's eye. The objective was a one-third reduction, or 17 million gallons."

Enthusiasm, however, was shown by Mr. Shelton, who pointed out that Target Day had reversed a high consumption trend for the several days before Target Day. For instance, the day before, Tuesday, marked up the high water use of 64,260,000 gallons, while Monday's rate was 53,830,000 gallons. The previous four days' trend averaged 15 percent above the use of water a year ago, but Target Day use was 21 percent below a year ago Wednesday.

Other areas in the county do not measure water use by the day, so Target Day figures were not available. The La Mesa, Lemon Grove and Spring Valley Irrigation District, however, had a monthly use report which showed the district had taken 65 million gallons less than the 300 million gallons used a year ago, better than a 21 percent reduction.

Despite the outstanding reduction on Target Day, Shelton pointed out, water use is running ahead of last year in most instances and a sustained effort is necessary every day, not just on Target Day, to save water. Target Day results, he said, showed that it is possible to cut down if the people are determined to do so.

No one is asked to deprive himself of water at the cost of serious hardship, Shelton emphasized. On the contrary, he said, the whole idea of water conservation is to prevent hardships now or later by using water carefully when and where it is needed and avoid waste, but beyond that point use not a drop. Shelton was of the opinion that the close approach to the target Wednesday was the result of some stringent saving on the part of some people which offset indifferent saving by others.

"If everyone co-operates to Save Our Water," Shelton declared, "no one will have to go beyond the point of reasonable savings. Our committee is intensifying its efforts to spread the Save Our Water idea to everyone so that the burden of water saving will be equally shared and heavy on none as a result."

Committee's Proposed Tax Increase Hits Lower Income Groups Hardest

TAXES ON THE LOCAL LEVEL—By July 1, or shortly thereafter, the man on Main Street is going to find himself subject to increased individual income taxes if the house ways and means committee's proposals are carried out.

The committee voted to increase income taxes $2,950,000,000 a year. The increase would raise taxes in every bracket by 3 percentage points.

For instance, a single man with a net income of $2,000 a year would pay $322 in taxes instead of $280. This would be an increase from 20 per cent to 23 per cent.

In the second bracket ($2,000 to $4,000), the tax would go up from 22 to 25 per cent, and in the third bracket ($4,000 to $6,000), from 26 to 29 per cent.

In general, the increase in each person's tax would be about the same as the jump which took place under the first war-tax bill passed last year. This proposed taxation is tentative, however, and subject to possible changes by the house, the senate finance committee, and the full senate. But it is an indication of approximately what the small-towner can expect before the summer is over.

In The News

Defense Secretary Marshall (top picture) continued to be of top interest in the nation's press as he told senators the home-towners don't want to expand the war in Korea . . . Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnston (center) was in the news again with demands for extension of economic controls . . . Donald Dawson (lower picture) made front pages by swearing he never used pressure on RFC directors.

WHAT DOES AMERICA THINK?—From the time this nation was founded politicians have tried to keep in close contact with the home towns in an effort to know and understand what the average man is thinking. Very few of them, however, have succeeded.

With this in mind, Secretary of Defense Marshall made a bold statement during his testimony on the MacArthur-Truman controversy when he asserted the American people will stand with the administration on military policy in Korea.

Marshall believes the average home-towner has no desire to expand the war in Asia. He believes the American people "are on the side that the defense department, the joint chiefs of staff, and the civilian authority of the government favor."

This side, Marshall asserted, involved a settled conviction that the present policy of limited commitment of force in Korea must go on.

TEAM WORK—The first thing the American youngster learns, whether he is a city boy or a small town one, is that he has to be a member of the team. To play with the other kids he must cooperate. Americans carry this lesson with them through life.

It was with some relief, therefore, that home-towners heard the news that those free nations who have been trading with Communist China had finally agreed it was time to start playing with the home team and to cut off that trade completely.

Britain, trade and dollar hungry, was possibly the worst offender. It could be that the senate vote to cut off economic aid to any nation which permits its citizens to trade with Communist areas had much to do with the sudden splurge of cooperation.

FOR HUNGRY BEEF EATERS—In an action entirely independent of the recent projected general rollback on beef prices scheduled by October 1, the government unexpectedly slashed approximately 12 cents a pound off ceiling prices of some chuck steaks and pot roasts.

For the hungry beef eaters of the nation it was a welcome surprise. It is not likely to make relations between the administration and the nation's beef producers, packers and distributors any cosier, however.

In The News

Dr. Mary T. Martin Sloop (top picture), 77-year-old of Cranmore, N.C., became big news when she was named American Mother of 1951. Dr. Sloop, wife of a country doctor, became nationally known for her work among the underprivileged in the mountains of her state . . . . Always sensational news, glamor princess Rita Hayworth, arrived in Reno to divorce Prince Aly Kahn.

A SECOND ATTEMPT—While General Marshall and the joint chiefs of staff testified before congressional committees in rebuttal to earlier testimony of Gen. Douglas MacArthur on the conduct of the Korean war, North Korean and Chinese Communists were ready for a second attempt in their spring offensive.

The first attempt launched April 22, bogged down in little over a week with an estimated 75,000 casualties. For the second try, the Communists rushed thousands of troops into three buildup areas armed with an unusually large number of machine guns and Russian-type submachine guns.

United Nations forces were ready and waiting for the new offensive, firmly entrenched and, for the first time in the war, ready with an air raid warning system. UN commanders remained firm in the belief they could beat back anything the Communists could throw against them.

THE PRICE IS STEEP—The weeks of futile talks in Paris by deputies of the big four foreign ministers has reaffirmed in the minds of the average home-towner the fact you can't reason with the Communists. For weeks the deputies have tried to work out an agenda for a meeting of the big four foreign ministers without success.

It is apparent that the end of the rope has been reached. The price demanded by the Reds is too high for a God fearing and freedom loving nation. The Russians insist upon an arms-reduction item in the agenda that would mean the suspension of our defense program. The Russians want their own kind of arms-reduction formula. It doesn't include international inspection and control.

Here again the free world has been blocked in its attempt to ease world tensions and try to make some progress toward real peace.

THE TALKING CONGRESS—At the moment it appears that the 82nd congress will go down in history as the talking congress, with a record of fewer laws enacted than the 80th congress which was termed the "do-nothing congress" by President Truman.

After four full months, the 82nd congress has enacted only 28 public laws, a recent check revealed. None of the major platform planks on which Truman won election for a second term have been approved. Of 87 specific legislative recommendations by the President, only three have become effective as a result of congressional action since January. And two of them affect only soldiers or veterans of the war in Korea.

FROM COW TO CAN

New Milk Canning Process Is Reported

A new cow-to-can process that produces milk that tastes like bottled milk, but which can be shipped long distances without spoiling is being used by a dairy in East Stanwood, Wash., and being sent to Alaska, Japan and the armed forces.

The process was invented by Dr. Roy B. Graves, 64-year-old research scientist. Since March 30, 2,000 gallons of milk have been canned daily.

The milk is never exposed to air. The canning is done in a bacteria-free atmosphere of steam. It differs from the standard pasteurization process in the amount of heat used.

In the new process the milk is exposed to 278-degree heat for only eight seconds, the 64-year-old scientist reported.

CHEMICAL STOPS POLIO GROWTH . . . Dr. Gordon Brown (left) and Dr. W. W. Ackerman, University of Michigan scientists, reported recently the discovery of a chemical compound which will stop growth and multiplication of polio virus in a laboratory culture of human tissues. This is the first time a chemical has stopped the growth of the virus. Use of the chemical, ethionine, was reported during the 35th annual meeting of immunologists in Cleveland.

EARTHQUAKE AFTERMATH . . . Through a lane strewn with rubble, a group of inhabitants of Jucuapa, Salvador, carry whatever they can salvage as they flee to safety following violent earthquake that rocked the country recently. More damage was inflicted on the inhabitants when landslides followed the quake. The death toll was officially placed at 1,200. The Salvadoran Red Cross mobilized all its facilities to care for the injured and homeless.

EISENHOWER CONFERS . . . General Dwight D. Eisenhower (left), commander-in-chief of the Atlantic pact forces, holds his first official conference with the United States director of defense mobilization, Charles Wilson, at the general's temporary SHAPE headquarters in Paris. Among the topics discussed by the two officials was the matter of the division of resources among the Atlantic pact members.

COURTROOM DRAMA . . . Boy identifies dope peddler. Phillip Petress, 15, points to Homer Stigger in Chicago courtroom as the man who sold him two capsules of heroin. Phillip's mother and State Attorney Boyle (right) look on as new state narcotics law with heavy penalties is invoked for first time. A growing problem across the nation is dope addiction among teen-agers, aggravated by unscrupulous dope peddlers who prey upon young people.

MORMON PRESIDENT . . . David O. McKay was elected ninth president of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints during the church's 121st conference in Salt Lake City. He still works, rides horseback on his farm.

PULITZER WINNER . . . The Pulitzer Prize committee gave its 1951 fiction award to Conrad Richter for his novel, "The Town," a story of the American frontier family during the first half of the 19th century.

KOREAN WAR HERO . . . Master Sgt. Ernest R. Kouma, Dwight, Neb., is the first survivor of the Korean war to receive the congressional medal of honor from President Truman. He is credited with killing 250 Chinese Communists.

SECURITY COUNCIL HEAD . . . Selim Sarper, Turkey, new president of the U.N. security council, presides at a session. The U.S., Britain and France were expected to join in an appeal for a cease fire in Syrian-Israeli conflict.

CHAIRMAN DIES . . . Rep. John Kee (D., W. Va.), chairman of house foreign affairs committee, died while presiding over a session of his group. He had been ill for a long time and expressed desire to die "with boots on."

Debate Arms Boycott

MOST IMPORTANT diplomatic debate of the Korean war has been going on backstage at the United Nations—namely, an arms boycott of Red China.

So far our U.N. allies haven't got around to voting to ban arms, let alone an economic embargo. However, it remains a fact that this is one of the most important steps to be taken against any aggressor.

Furthermore there is a long history of diplomatic pussyfooting regarding this by our supposedly good friends—pussyfooting that eventually has landed them in war. Here is some case history:

Pussyfoot No. 1 was when the British undercut us in 1931 when Japan first invaded Manchuria. Issues almost identical to the Korean aggression were involved in Manchuria, and the late Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson saw them clearly. He saw that Japan was sowing the first wild oats of aggression, just as Russia is today, and that if she got away with one aggressive bite there would be more.

But Stimson never could get the British, who had more at stake than we, to cooperate. When U.S. Ambassador Cameron Forbes would deliver a note of protest, the British ambassador did likewise — then dropped round to the Japanese foreign office an hour or two later to explain that Britain's note was merely to please the Americans and not to be taken seriously.

Pussyfoot No. 2 was when President Roosevelt tried to organize an economic blockade of Japan in 1936 in order to stop further aggression against China. By this time the British realized their 1931 mistake and went along with us. But Roosevelt could not get the support of other European powers. Hitler and Mussolini were too strong by that time, and he also faced the private opposition of Cordell Hull.

Pussyfoot No. 3 came when Mussolini invaded helpless Ethiopia. This was one of the crudest cases of aggression the modern world has seen, and the tottering League of Nations conscientiously tried to act. But although an economic blockade was voted for the first time in history, two things made it unsuccessful.

One was the exclusion of oil. The big American and British oil companies pulled backstage wires, managed to scare British and American diplomats into permitting the continued shipments of oil to Mussolini. Without oil, his fleet would have been paralyzed and his trucks could not have moved. But we pussyfooted.

Pussyfoot No. 4 is taking place right now in regard to Red China, an obvious, wanton aggressor in Korea. While the British are the worst pussyfooters, we in the U.S.A., including General MacArthur himself, have pulled our punches.

MacArthur, for instance, has permitted a steady driblet of strategic materials to flow into Red China from Japan. From July to October, 1950, he permitted $8,106,000 in metals, machinery and textiles to leave Japan for China. From October to January, Jap exports to the Communists increased to $11,100,000. Since MacArthur controlled all Jap exports, this could have been stopped.

However, the flow of British goods entering China through Hong Kong is the most shocking scandal of the entire Korean war. While American lives are being snuffed out, British millionaires are being made overnight.

Yet the state department has taken no tough steps, such as a threat to cut off U.S. economic aid to Britain, as a means of stopping this trade.

Merry-Go-Round

Robert Mack, a senate elevator operator, literally stepped into Senator Kefauver's shoes the other day. The Tennessee crimebuster worked so late that he had to dress for dinner in his office, bolted out the door wearing dinner dress, but brown shoes. In the elevator he noticed his mistake, traded shoes with Mack, who had on black shoes, and got to dinner on time. . . . Congratulations to Ira Hirschmann and his radio station WABF in New York for winning the Peabody award for good music.

Chinese Give Up

It didn't get into the press communiques, but a small naval task force turned back a Chinese thrust down the Korean east coast recently. The Chinese Communists sent two units to prod for a weak spot in the South Korean line that is defending the east coast.

However, two American cruisers and four destroyers hurled broadsides all day into the attacking Chinese. After 1,000 rounds of devastating ship-to-shore fire, the Chinese gave up.

CAPITOL - COUNTY
News Letter
BY
ASSEMBLYMAN RALPH R. CLOYED

Visitors from San Diego County during the week received a typical Sacramento welcome with the temperature hovering around the 100° mark. Over half the visitors who were extended the courtesy of the Assembly chambers were from San Diego County.

On request of the San Diego County delegation, Supervisors Dave Bird and Dean Howell found time to visit the Legislature before the Supervisors' Association meeting started. Dan Rossi, also in Sacramento, did not visit in the Capitol. Walter Wencke was the guest of Assemblyman Luckel. Also Chris A. Wasem of Altes Brewing Company, along with Mr. Berry, Manager of the office of the Liquor Enforcement Division of San Diego County, and Charles Cameron, Sr., Charles Cameron Jr., and Armund Ault of the same office were guests. In addition, there was John M. Cranston, attorney for the Fredericka Home in Chula Vista, and Harold Baker, the home manager, who attended a committee hearing on proposed legislation affecting the home. They left well satisfied. Carroll Huscher of Fallbrook, attended to legislative duties as president of the Frozen Food Lockers Association.

Farmers blame Warren for the defeat of the agriculture Hot Cargo bill. The measure would ban boycott on perishable agriculture products. The Assembly voted 42-22 to switch the bill from the Agriculture Committee to the Industrial Relations Committee. The second committee is so friendly to organized labor that the bill does not have a chance. Clarke, the author, claims that the executive secretary of the farm organization said, "Union leaders spread the story in the Assembly that if the bill went to the Governor it would jeopardize Warren's chance to be a candidate for President in 1952." At the beginning of the session Warren recommended against legislation causing trouble between labor and management.

Cigarette Tax amendment to the Dunn $50,000,000 school aid bill was sent to the Assembly floor with the cigarette tax rider left behind, over the author's (Sherwin) objection. The Committee sent the measure to the floor with a "do pass" recommendation. While the State Finance Department estimated surplus over the budget is only $20,000,000 leaving insufficient funds to finance the school bill and other special appropriations pending in the legislature, members of the legislature seem to be of the opinion that the Finance Department estimate is purposely being held down and if the truth was known the surplus will be sufficient to provide the necessary school needs.

Dean Atchison non-payment resolution is defeated. This is the resolution which would have placed the California legislature in support of a proposal in Congress to stop the payment of salaries to employees of the State department who have been engaged directly or indirectly in representing any foreign government in the last five years.

Truck Tax Shift measure is recommended for an interim committee study of the proposal to repeal the 3% gross receipt tax on highway common carrier trucks and shift part of the burden to private trucks by increasing the fuel tax on heavy vehicles.

The committee made this decision after listening to a three hour debate between the "for hire" truck interests and private truck owners—A.B. 1814 by Dunn.

Disability Pay Boost, a bill to increase maximum state disability insurance benefits from $25 to $30 a week has won final passage in the legislature and has been signed by the Governor.

Child Care Centers appropriation of $6,071,000 to continue state aid to child care centers after June 30 was passed by the Assembly after the author received a letter from Gover Warren. An appropriation bill cannot be passed by the legislature until after the state budget bill is passed unless the bill is accompanied by a letter from the Governor. The budget, in excess of $1,000,000,000, has passed the Assembly and is now undergoing final scrutiny by the Senate Finance Committee. The Governor gave the letter because he felt it necessary that the people employed in child care centers due to expire on June 30 should know that the centers were to be continued. This makes the sixth item of the Governor's program that has received legislative approval. Five of his recommendations have either been killed or are highly dubious.

CLEM WHITAKER, Jr.

Currently under discussion by the California Legislature are two tremendously important proposals to amend the United States Constitution.

Strangely enough, the more controversial of the two measures is Senate Joint Resolution 10, which proposes an amendment to the constitution to limit federal income taxes to 25 percent.

Calling attention to its continuous support of measures designed to increase governmental efficiency and reduce taxes, the State Chamber of Commerce, in emphatic opposition to S. J. R. 10, warned in legislative testimony that the proposal might produce tax confusion and inequity rather than tax relief, "as it might force Congress" to resort to other, "more harmful forms of taxation."

According to the consensus of constitutional authority, the means of bringing this proposal before Congress is for 32 State Legislatures to pass resolutions requesting such action. In that event, the U. S. Constitution provides that Congress shall call a convention for proposing amendments. Any amendments proposed by the convention then would require ratification by three-fourths (36) of the States prior to becoming law.

It is interesting to note that this device of calling a convention for proposing amendments has not been used.

Of importance, too, is the fact that there is no way the individual States can limit such a convention to consideration of one specific amendment.

The second proposal for amendment of the U. S. Constitution before the State Legislature, perhaps of even greater significance than the first, urges Congress (under its powers) to submit to the States an amendment specifically stating that the Constitution, its limitations on congressional powers, its basic principles, its guarantees of individual liberties, the Bill of Rights and the independence of the federal judiciary "shall not be abolished or altered by any treaty or executive agreement."

Motivating force for this proposal are certain court opinions holding that the United Nations charter is the supreme law of this land, superior to the United States Constitution. Under this interpretation, any clauses on human rights, genocide, international trade or other matters in the UN charter would take precedent over the United States Constitution.

While the courts ponder the matter, the Legislature's purpose is to amend the Constitution so that there can be no doubt of the sovereignty of the national government and the 48 States.

These two proposals for constitutional amendment, while little heralded, in the opinion of many astute observers, could prove more far-reaching than any of the hotly-contested political issues now under discussion in Sacramento.

The war between the States of California and Arizona over Colorado River water rights involved in the proposed Central Arizona Water Project seems to have ended in a technical knockout for California.

Congressional action on the project has been indefinitely postponed, pending resolvement of the differences between the two States. The differences are so great—Arizona ardently desires the Project while California adamantly opposes it—that any compromise would appear highly unlikely.

Now that the project is under wraps, some Congressmen are pointing to the long and bitter battle as an outstanding illustration of the need for a basic national water development policy.

If such a policy ever is adopted, one of its essential ingredients will doubtless be a basic "feasibility test" wherever Federal investment is involved, for it is the economic justification for proposed projects around which the arguments generally center.

Recently, in an address before San Francisco's Commonwealth Club, Sinclair O. Harper, former Chief Engineer of the U. S. Bureau of Reclamation, observed that pressures for development projects of questionable feasibility are of comparatively recent vintage.

The original concept of Federal reclamation, Mr. Harper declared, was to undertake only projects beyond the ability of State or local agencies to finance and develop.

"Now," he pointed out, "projects are undertaken which formerly would be rejected as economicaly unsound. Federal agencies are also competing with local agencies for control of projects, particularly power developments which private capital is able and willing to finance."

The reason for the changed attitude, the former Reclamation Bureau official stated, is that during the Depression, such ambitious projects as Central Valley and Grand Coulee were authorized as work relief projects, and as such, their financial feasibility was secondary. During the 30's, the Bureau's emphasis shifted from irrigation to public power, and in the meantime, policies "have been shaped by officials whose training was received in relief agencies where free spending and larger payrolls were a virtue."

In the light of those obeservations, it becomes clear that "economic feasibility" may mean different things to different people. In fighting for the Central Arizona Project, Arizona Congressmen found nothing infeasible in a proposal to spend 700 million dollars to transport water to mediocre farm land at a cost of $1750 per acre. California Congressmen didn't think it feasible at all, although it's just barely possible that some of them might have had a different opinion if the land to be benefited had been located in California.

Determining an acceptable "feasibility test" on which to base a national water development policy isn't going to be easy.

AGRICULTURAL EXTENSION SERVICE

Give Them Air

Give meat, poultry and fish a little room to breathe in the refrigerator, recommends Delphine Wilson, Home Advisor for the University of California Agricultural Extension Service. Loosen any tight transparent coverings, and wrap again loosely before refrigerating, she suggests.

All meat, poultry and fish should be kept cold, preferably at a temperature of 35 to 40 F. Ground fresh meat and variety meats spoil more quickly than roasts, chops or steaks. They should be stored loosely wrapped and cooked within two days.

Smoked meats, such as ham, frankfurters, and bacon, are the exception to the rule, Mrs. Wilson says. They may be kept tight-wrapped during storage. Smoked meats will keep longer than the unsmoked, although bacon and sausage may change flavor.

If you have to keep cooked meat, poultry or fish, or any broth or gravy, cover it in the refrigerator and plan to use it up within a few days.

Strawberries Freeze Easily

Strawberries are one of the reasons home freezers have become so popular, in the opinion of Delphine Wilson, Home Advisor for the University of California Agricultural Extension Service. Frozen strawberries, still retaining their fresh color and flavor in the winter, make something special of the family meal.

Strawberries and rhubarb are the only fruits that do not need special peeling or pitting before freezing, Mrs. Wilson says. Select the best berries that are fully ripe, with a distinct flavor. Wash them well and remove the hulls. Crush the berries with sugar or slice them, leaving a few whole ones in the carton for garnish. Use one pound of sugar to each four to six pounds of berries.

Further instructions on how to prepare, store, thaw and cook frozen foods are available in leaflet from the Agricultural Extension Service, 4005 Rosecrans Street San Diego. The publication, entitled "Home Freezing," is free upon request.

4-H News Note

The second 4-H Club—Farm Bureau Field Day, sponsored by the Bank of America, will be held Saturday. The event will be held from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m. at the Kellogg Unit of the California Polytechnic College located a few miles west of Pomona on U. S. Highway 60. 4-H Leaders and Club members are invited to attend and participate. Those attending are requested to bring their own picnic lunch, and to come in uniform.

The morning program will include Agricultural, Home Economic and Demonstration Team contests.

After the picnic lunch, the following program will be held: Parade of 4-H members; Welcome by Julian McPhee, President of California Polytechnic College; address by J. Earl Coke, director of California Agricultural Extension Service; Livestock Parade. Address by Ray Wiser President of California Farm Bureau Federation; Awards by Mr. Gock, Bank of America; Arabian Horse Show.

Western Poultry Congress at Fresno

Fresno will be the site of the largest poultry and turkey convention ever held in the West, according to Robert H. Adolph, Farm Advisor. The fifth Annual Western Poultry Congress, June 28, 29 and 30, will be housed in two of the large buildings at the Fresno District Fairgrounds. Exhibitors from all parts of the United States will be present and will display the latest in equipment and other products. Convention Headquarters will be the Hotel Californian.

The three day program will dwell on subjects which are of vital interest to not only producer and hatcheryman, but to those interested in all phases of the poultry industry. "Experience with Beltville Whites," a panel discussion, will be one of the highlights on Turkey Day. Beltsville White production in the West has increased several hundred percent within the last year.

There is no registration fee.

Keep the Hens Cool

The hen cannot adapt herself to high temperatures, R. H. Adolph, Farm Advisor of the University of California Agricultural Extension Service, today suggested that poultry producers take steps now to make their hens more comfortable on the hot days ahead. Thus they can save some of the production, and possibly the lives, of some of the birds.

Cooling systems have been installed on many poultry ranches. Overhead sprinklers are placed about every six feet over the roofs of poultry houses. These are used to sprinkle the roof when the temperature rises above 85 or 90 degrees F. Adolph points out that those already having sprinklers in should check them over right away. Several growers have found that water standing in these pipes during the winter months has caused broken equipment due to freezing temperatures.

Another method of cooling the poultry house that is commonly used is spraying a fine mist of water inside the house over the litter and birds. This spray reduces the air temperature inside the house. It also wets the birds and hastens cooling by evaporation of the water. The fine spray of water on birds is an effective method of cooling birds during hot weather.

Adolph offers some precautions that apply to spraying inside the poultry house. The particles of water must be finely broken up. If the spray is permitted to run continuously, the litter becomes too wet and humidity is increased excessively. The fine spray should run about ten minutes at a time. The performance is repeated about every two hours as long as needed.

Adolph also cautions that nesting equipment and housing must be checked to see that sufficient air movement is present to prevent suffocation of birds. Poultrymen are urged to try wire bottom nesting equipment as a means for preventing poultry losses due to suffocation in nests.

Reckless Driving Not One of Speed

A car may be driven as recklessly at 25 miles an hour as at 60, the California Highway Patrol reminded motorists today.

"That would be true," the Patrol pointed out, "if the driver deliberately disregarded the rules of safe driving and the sign and signals on the streets and highways, even at the moderate speed of 25 miles an hour."

But excessive speed still leads all other causes of traffic accidents on the highways, the Patrol said, adding that most of the accidents occur on straight roads under ideal weather conditions.

Besides speed too fast for conditions, other accident causes were listed by the Patrol as follows:

Driving too close to the car ahead.
Driving with imperfect brakes.
Driving without headlights or only one headlight.
Driving with a dirty windshield or rear window.
Driving with dangerously worn tires.

Junior High School

Students Given High School Prview

Eighth grade students of Lemon Grove Junior High School were given a preview of high school life, which they will begin next September. A group of students from Grossmont High, under Virgil Duea, a high school teacher, presented an assembly to the eight graders at the school, last Friday morning.

Boys and girls were told the advantages of taking an extra interest in clubs, hobbies, or sports at the new Helix High. Boys were told the advantages and benefits of trying out for athletic teams. Girls were told the benefits of joining clubs, such as the Horizon Club, Girls League, and school newspaper.

All the students were urged to purchase an Associated Student body card which would enable them to get the paper, get reduced prices at games, and try out for a team.

Grossmont cheer and song leaders led the group in a few yells, and then in the Grossmont Hymn.

The assembly was sponsored by the Girls Athletic Association of Grossmont, and they did a fine job.

Eighth grade students have begun practicing for the graduation exercises, to be held June 14, 6:30 p. m. at Friendship Hall.

are to be held June 14, 6:30 p. m. at Friendship Hall.

First place in the eighth grade was captured by Captain Sandra Clark, with Barbara Clifton and Barbara Bulch; second honors went to Captain Kay Kish, with Mercedes Alvarez, and Marilyn Stafford captained the third place team, with Lola Nolan and Janet Williar. In the seventh grade, the first place was taken by Captain Loretta Bell, with teammates Margaret Finch and Lorraine Coleman; second place went to Captain Gail Stringer, with Betty Sneed and Mary Barrows; Third place was captured by Captain Dona Volger with Martha McGuire. In both grades, half-court basketball was played. Coaches were B. H. Davis, Mel Frailey and Elizabeth Robbins.

P. T. A. Picnic Held for Lemon Grove Teachers

The P. T. A. executive board of the Lemon Grove School held a picnic dinner for all teachers at Eucalyptus Park last Friday evening. About two hundred guests, including faculty, board members, and the new officers, and teachers, enjoyed a delicious dinner of tacos, baked beans, coleslaw, cake, lemonade, and coffee. All members of the executive board assisted in the preparation of the food.

Music Parents Club Committee Meets

A committee from the newly organized Music Parents Club of the Lemon Grove School District met at the school cafeteria on Wednesday afternoon, with representatives of the faculty. The group discussed the music program, both vocal and instrumental, for the coming school term, and drew up several resolutions to be presented to the club and school administrators for further consideration. Attending were Mmes. C. F. Baxter, P. E. Humphrey, Ruth Pfister, Evelyn Lauritzen and Margaret L. Darroch, Arthur Thomas, and Paul Cheathan, music director.

The list of characters includes: The cobbler, Walter Johnson; cobbler's wife, Ronica Barker; leatherman, Jimmy Sunberry; rich man, Alfred Oligine; four horses, Fred Rubalcaba, Tony Alvarez, George Schover, and Tommy Heyob; dancing elves, Margaret Steppler, Sherry Nollet, Donna Alexander, Vici Stradley, Carolyn Denlinger, Marsha Thomas, and Marlene Bates; Narrator, Victoria Ritter; chorus Diane M. Amundson, Marilyn Humphrey, Janice Martin, Judy Easton, Susan Carr, Katharine Lincoln, Mary Cesena, Diane Anderson; rhythm band, Michael Sisson, Richard Brueninger, Larry J. Reagan, Randy Stoner, Mary Cesena, Billy Oaks, Dick Grube, Diane Anderson, Marilyn Humphrey, Janice Martin, Judy Easton, Susan Carr, Katherine Lincoln, Ronald Fox, and Diane Amundson.

Mrs. Bengston, first grade teacher, is director for the production.

Second Graders Visit Farm

On last Wednesday morning Mrs. Agnes L. Rodgers' second grade went to Knox Dairy Farm. Since they wished to visit during milking time, several mothers donated their cars so that the group could arrive at the dairy earlier than the usual school time.

When they arrived at the farm, Mr. Malzahn met the group and took them to the pastures, explaining the feeding of the animals. They then visited the milking barns where they watched the cows being milked by machine. Pasteurization and homogenizing were explained, the groups saw the bottles being washed, the milk and cream being bottled, and the cases being filled for delivery.

After they had seen the entire process, they were treated to fresh cool milk and cookies. Everyone learned from the trip, and it was enjoyed by all.

This week John von Gilse will have these Safety Patrol Boys from the Lemon Grove School as his guests at the Grove Theatre for the Saturday matinee: Jack Gaskins, Mickey Behaglo, James Herrera, Stanley Sollecder, Warren Hagen, Keith Hall, Laird Hodge, Bill Cabral, Robert Thompson, and Willard Rigley.

Dear Mrs. Graham: Thank you for showing us the machinery and how it works and for telling us how you get the news and all those interesting facts. We are very grateful.

Sincerely Yours,

The Sixth Grade Class, Lemon Grove School.

Monterey Heights School

Oliver Hoddapp, of the fifth grade at Monterey Heights School, submitted the following composition to class on "My Trip To Death Valley."

Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Hoddapp and their two children went on a trip to Death Valley on Wednesday. We left here about 6:30 in the morning and arrived there about 3:15 p. m. The first thing we did was jump out of the car and run up the mountain and slide down. But the next morning we decided to see other things. First we went to Nomm's workshop. We saw a stream of salt spray coming from bubbling pots. We also saw the borax mills. After that we went to the museum, where we saw cannon balls, stamps, stagecoaches, trains, buckboards and water wagons.

Mrs. Kennedy's third grade enjoyed an ice cream treat as their prize for winning the recent rag drive sponsored by the Monterey Heights P. T. A. This drive was for the purpose of raising money for the summer recreation program. The third grade in this room brought in 155 pounds of rags. Everyone is happy to welcome two new class members: Steve Crawford, from Bostonia, who now lives at 1519 Dupont, and Lyle Waites, from Vallejo, who will reside at 2175 Ensenada.

During the months of April and May, Mrs. Lowery's first grade enjoyed two pleasant trips. With the help of several room mothers, the children visited Miller's Dairy Farm. They were intrigued by the machinery involved in preparation for milk for their use, must most of all they were facinated by the cows. Each child was given free ice cream, and when they returned to school they brought two gallons of milk with them. They watched the cream rise, and later each helped churn butter. At Open House, class guests were served crackers with "school-made" butter and "school-grown" cress.

Last week on Monday the children arrived at school dressed in old clothes and each carried a well-filled lunch sack. An hour before dismissal time, the group hiked to Mrs. Lowery's home. Here they romped while lunch was in preparation, and immediately after lunch they went down to the avocado grove to play hide-and-seek games.

Vista La Mesa School

In the morning first grade, many pets visited the class this past week. Sendra Bush brought her five kittens to school, Bonnie Covell shared her two yellow ducklings with classmates, and Paul Bever brought one of his young rabbits to school. The class wrote stories about the pets and drew pictures of them.

David Robert Rowland, of the second grade, p. m., at Vista La Mesa School, sends the following account of the class trip to the dairy:

We went to Knox's Dairy. The mothers came too. My mother was one of them. The man told us about all the five kinds of cattle. He showed us how they cut up the feed. He showed us how clean the cows have to be. We saw the men milking the cows by machine. They put the caps on the bottles by machine, too. We petted the calves. We saw them lying on the hay. They gave us cookies and milk. We all liked the dairy.

IS NOT ONLY PERSISTENT IN HIS WINNING WAYS AS A YANKEE PITCHER BUT ALSO ON ANOTHER COUNT. HE STARTED OUT FOR A COLLEGE DEGREE IN 1938. ELEVEN YEARS LATER, AFTER STUDYING EVERY SPARE MOMENT HE COULD, HE GOT IT—A B.S. FROM WILLIAM & MARY, THAT SAME YEAR HE WON 21 AND LOST 10 FOR THE BRONX BOMBERS.

Good Ball Clubs Slump, But Why?

By GRANTLAND RICE

The Answer

The Moving Finger writes, and having writ
Moves on, nor any error or a hit,
Nor any prayer can change a single score,
Nor any tears wash out a game from it.

The Costly Slump

New York, May—No one can explain a slump. One can only take a lying guess. One can only guess what actually happened to the Giants through the windy, chilly April days of 1951. A good many writers saw this squad train at St. Petersburg and the majority opinion rated Leo Durocher's outfit either on top or close to the Dodgers. The Dodgers, Giants and Phillies were rated in the plateau country, practically neck and neck.

Grantland Rice

I know Durocher worked his punch into first-class physical shape. Condition has always been a big word in the Durocher dictionary. He rates mental attitude just as high.

"This club had no pennant faith itself last summer," he said one morning, "until June had passed into July. Then it began to believe it could win, a very big factor. From that point on through July, August and September we played the best ball in the league. Now we are starting this season with a stronger faith in ourselves than we had at any time last summer. The team has been strengthened by the additions of Noble, Bowman and Wilson. I feel sure we have a fine chance to win, although I know also how good the Dodgers are. A good start will be a big help."

Whereupon this hustling, well-conditioned ball club took a fast running start and dived for the bottom of the pit. Here was a better team than the squad that outplayed the league for three months. It was a match for any team it faced all spring, including the Indians. But after picking up two games in Boston, the following moody events started taking place—

No. 1—The pitching became extremely erratic. When the pitching improved, bad outfield and infield play wrecked game after game. I saw one outfielder turn a simple putout into a game-winning home run by misjudging the same ball twice.

No. 2—The consistent power at bat became extremely inconsistent. The Giants could hit only on days when the other team was getting more hits and runs. They couldn't support the few well-pitched games they got.

No. 3—The team lost its hustle. It soon began to look whipped. There was a dazed look on practically every Giant face.

No. 4—The squad was overtensioned. It was drawn tighter than a dozen drums. Apparently all its early faith and belief had been wrecked.

The Rest of the Way

No one can say just how far the Giants ragged start will crowd them close to 1951 oblivion. It certainly won't be any big help. They are still only a few games back of the leaders and now that the losing skein has been broken it may be a different story. A few winning games could get them going again.

I ran across several managers and veteran ballplayers who didn't believe Hearn and Maglie would do nearly as well with a pennant chance as they did when far out of the race. There is a big psychological difference. It was important to win this spring. It wasn't too important last summer when the team was far behind. Jansen, Hearn and Maglie are still three good pitchers. Jansen has pitched two fine games and another good one. Hearn and Maglie so far haven't been nearly as effective as they were last summer on a team practically out of the running.

No one can lay any blame so far on Durocher. He has picked the pitchers he was figured to pitch. He hasn't the relief hurlers which he expected to have back in St. Petersburg.

The poor outfielding on the club wasn't expected. After all Durocher can't do the hitting and the fielding from the bench of the coach's box.

In the middle of a slump you become jittery and jumpy. You expect something morbid or melancholy to happen at any given moment. You are looking for trouble in every inning. You wear your collar cut low so as to be prepared for the worst. Finally the situation becomes so desperate you become numb—and then start winning again with most of the tension removed

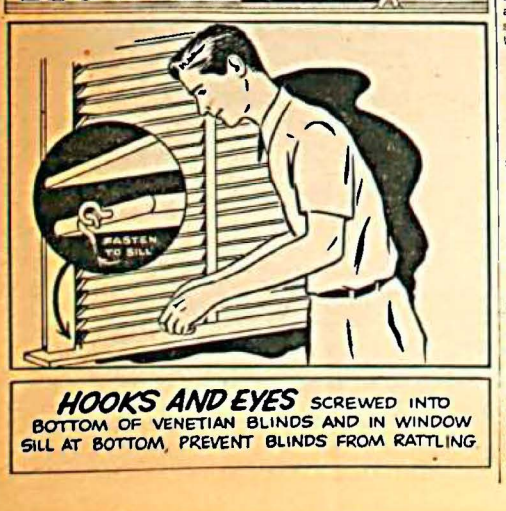
Field of Fun

Yale's 1951 football team may not finish among the first five or first ten or first twenty next fall. But we can slip you one soft, sure tip—It will have more fun and learn more football than any squad.

How to FIX-IT BY HAROLD ARNETT



HOOKS AND EYES SCREWED INTO BOTTOM OF VENETIAN BLINDS AND IN WINDOW SILL AT BOTTOM, PREVENT BLINDS FROM RATTLING

SHORT STORY

Aggie

By Richard H. Wilkinson

QUENTIN, north woods guide, told me this story.

"It happened shortly after gold was discovered up near Hayden," he began. "It wasn't much of a strike.

A settlement, however, sprung up and they named it Leland, after Jim.

3-Minute Fiction

"A year after the first log buildings were erected the settlers decided they ought to have a school teacher, and they sent down to Ottawa for one. Miss Agnes Sheldon volunteered and I was delegated to meet her at the station in Twin Forks. It was a six-day canoe trip, the only practical means of summer transportation.

"One look at Miss Agnes Sheldon when she stepped from that train and I smelled trouble. She wasn't old, but her features bore a mature look.

In no uncertain terms Agnes Sheldon told him she was capable of choosing her own costumes.

She wore a severe black suit, bone-rimmed glasses, cotton stockings, laced boots.

"When I introduced myself she looked at me as though I were some new kind of insect. That made me mad at the start. I scouted around the town and borrowed some apparel for her to wear that was suitable for the trip.

"I offered them to her and she glared at me as though I'd called her a bad name. In no uncertain terms she assured me she was capable of choosing her own costumes. Well, I was sort of glad. My conscience was clear and I felt that the trip would teach her a much needed lesson. I did, however, endeavor to prevail upon her to rub some mosquito lotion on her skin before we started. She wasn't, she said, going to smear herself up like a savage.

"The mosquitoes were pretty bad that year. Before noon of the first day Miss Sheldon was bitten so badly it hurt me to look at her. I offered her the lotion again and she refused it. I could see then that she was stubborn.

"The morning after the first night I crawled out of my tent at dawn and found that Miss Sheldon was up ahead of me. She was down at the river, bathing her face. By the looks of her clothes, she'd slept in them.

"The remainder of that trip was something to write home about. With each passing mile Miss Sheldon got more uncomfortable and more obstinate. And I, though I pitied her, got pretty stubborn myself. I decided not to offer her the lotion again until she asked for it. I was sure that sooner or later she'd break down and admit defeat. But she didn't.

"We had a pretty tough time in the Little Falls rapids because the river was high that year. We shipped a lot of water and Miss Sheldon got drenched through to the skin. That night it rained and she slept in wet clothes. The next day she broke her glasses, and because of near sightedness was always tripping over things.

"We reached Leland shortly after noon of the sixth day and there was quite a delegation down to meet us. Jim was there, beaming a welcome and ready to make a speech. But at sight of Miss Sheldon the beam died on his lips.

"'Gentlemen,' I says, 'this here's Miss Agnes Sheldon, our new school teacher. She aims to bring a bit of civilization into our settlement, and I reckon she's done it.'

"Well, sir, if Miss Sheldon hated me before, she despised me after that speech. But I'm danged if I could help it. This was my first experience with a female and I tell you I was mad. Any dumbhead who'd let mosquitoes bite the tar out of her like that, deserved to be told what was thought of her.

"Jim Leland's wife fetched her up to their cabin and put her to bed. She stayed there for almost two weeks. Mosquitoes, sunburn and wet clothes had danged near ruined her.

"Me, after I'd cooled off some, I felt kind of apologetic and decided the best thing I could do was to get out of town for a spell. But I didn't. No, sir I stuck there and faced my medicine. There's nothing like being married to a wife who's got a mind of her own—they say.

HOUSEHOLD MEMOS... by Lynn Chambers

Use Easy-Mix Recipe for Perfect Pastry
(See Recipes Below)

Perfect Pastries

YOU MAY HAVE to be a magician to pull rabbits out of a hat, but amateurs and experienced cooks can make perfect pastry if they have the right directions!

There was a time when you had to have that certain touch to make light, fluffy, tender, melt-in-your-mouth pie crust, but all the guesswork has been taken out of pie making with recent developments. The only requirements needed are exact measurements and the ability to read directions. All fuss, muss and extra utensils are eliminated.

New type pastry is made with liquid shortening and an ordinary kitchen fork. The pastry is rolled between two pieces of waxed paper, thus eliminating the need for extra flour which in the past has often toughened perfectly good pastry.

Easy-Mix Pastry
(Makes 2 8 or 9-inch crusts)

2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon salt
½ cup salad oil
¼ cup plus 1 tablespoon ice water

Sift together flour and salt. Combine in a measuring cup, the salad oil and ice water. Beat with a fork until thick and creamy. To avoid separation, immediately pour (all at once) over entire surface of the flour mixture. Toss and mix with fork. The dough will be moist. Form into a ball with the fork.

Divide dough in half. Before rolling, shape each half with the hands into a flat round, making top and edges smooth. Roll dough between two squares of waxed paper. Remove top sheet, invert dough over pan; peel off paper. Fit pastry into pan. Roll out top crust. Cut gashes for escape of steam. Fill pastry-lined pan with desired filling. Place top crust over filling, and trim ½-inch beyond the rim of the pan. Seal edge by folding top under bottom crust. Flute edge. Bake at temperature required for filling used.

PIE FOR LUNCHEON can be an easy matter with this new type crust because it's so simple to make, so successful always. Why not try this pie, plain, or with the addition of weiners or fish if you like it meaty?

Provencal Potato Pie
(Serves 6)

6 medium potatoes
1½ teaspoons salt
1 large onion, chopped
1 teaspoon chopped parsley
1 recipe easy-mix pastry
2 tablespoons butter
Few grains pepper
1 cup light cream or top milk

Peel potatoes; cut in very thin slices and place in bowl. Add salt, onion and chopped parsley and mix all together. Cover and let stand while preparing pastry. Line an oblong baking dish (10x6x2 inches) using ½ of the pastry rolled ⅛ inch thick. Drain onion-potato mixture. Fill pastry-lined dish. Dot with butter and season lightly with pepper. Roll out remaining pastry for top crust. Cover potatoes. Seal and flute edges. Make several slits in top to permit escape of steam. Bake in a moderate (350°F.) oven about 1¼ hours or until potatoes are tender. Remove from oven. Turn off oven. Slowly pour cream over potatoes through slits. Return pie to oven for 10 minutes longer. Potatoes will absorb most of the cream. If desired, pie may be prepared several hours in advance and held in refrigerator until ready to bake. Serve with meat, cut into squares or wedges.

• • •

VARIATION: Follow above recipe. Add 4 (½ pound) frankfurters, or 1¾ cups (one 7-ounce can) drained, flaked salmon or tuna fish, to drained potato mixture.

Cheese Straws
(Makes 40 straws)

½ recipe easy-mix pastry
½ cup grated American cheese (sharp ceddar or processed)

Prepare easy-mix pastry as directed. Roll out dough in rectangle, ⅛-inch thick. Sprinkle with one-half of the grated cheese; fold and sprinkle with remaining cheese and fold again. Roll to desired thickness. Lift dough and place on cookie sheet. Cut in strips 5 inches long, ¼ inch wide. Twist, if desired. Bake in a hot (425°F.) oven 8 to 10 minutes or until light brown. Serve as a soup or salad accompaniment.

Coconut Cream Pie

¼ cup cornstarch
⅔ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
2 cups milk, scalded
3 slightly beaten egg yolks
2 tablespoons butter
½ teaspoon vanilla
1 cup moist, shredded coconut
1 9-inch baked pastry shell

Mix cornstarch, sugar and salt. Gradually add milk. Cook in double boiler until thick, about 10 minutes, stirring constantly. Slowly add small amount of hot mixture to egg yolks; stir into remaining hot mixture. Cook 5 minutes. Cool. Add butter and vanilla. Stir in coconut. Pour into cooled pie shell and spread with meringue: Combine 2 egg whites, unbeaten, with ½ cup sugar, ⅛ teaspoon salt and 2 tablespoons water in double boiler. Beat with rotary egg beater until thoroughly blended. Cook 1 minute over boiling water, beating constantly. Remove from hot water; beat 2 minutes longer or until mixture stands in peaks. Pile lightly on pie and sprinkle lightly with toasted coconut. To toast coconut, spread on cookie sheet and brown lightly in a hot (400°) oven. Watch it carefully as it should brown only until golden.

Baked Bean Rarebit? Yes, it's a hearty supper dish made by melting sharp American cheese, grated, and then mixing in canned baked beans and pork. Serve on toast.

Any green vegetable will be the better if served with Maitre d'hotel butter which is made with sweet butter, lemon juice and minced parsley. Serve very hot.

For a good vegetable plus protein luncheon you'll like a spinach ring in the center of which are served creamed eggs and mushrooms. It's pretty enough for guests, too!

LYNN SAYS:
Pep Willed Appetites With these Tempting Foods

Consommé is fine served hot or cold and even more tempting when you mix together equal parts of strained clean broth and clear chicken broth. Serve with a blob of salted whipped cream and a slice of lemon.

Real flavor treat is a slice of eggplant marinated in French dressing then sprinkled with thyme and dusted with bread crumbs before broiling on both sides.

South Korea, largely agricultural, finds it difficult to grow enough to feed its 20 million people. Before the outbreak of hostilities, however, the 1950 rice crop was expected to supply the United States-sponsored republic's own needs and yield a small surplus.

PREPARING TO LAY ASPHALT TILES

Question: Does a basement cement floor need any special treatment before laying asphalt tile?

Answer: The concrete floor must be dry, clean, and free of paint or other finish. Spread a special mastic cement over the concrete with a paste spreader and then press the tile down into place. You will need a linoleum knife and a blowtorch to soften tile for cutting and trimming. Be careful not to put down too much cement, for it will ooze up between the tiles. Such work is usually done by a floor contractor.

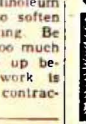
It's Wonderful the Way Chewing-Gum Laxative Acts Chiefly to REMOVE WASTE —NOT GOOD FOOD



● Here's the secret millions of folks have discovered about FEEN-A-MINT, the modern chewing-gum laxative. Yes, here is why FEEN-A-MINT's action is so wonderfully different!

Doctors say that many other laxatives start their "flushing" action too soon . . . right in the stomach where food is being digested. Large doses of such laxatives upset digestion. Gush away nourishing food you need for health and energy. You feel weak, worn out.

But gentle FEEN-A-MINT, taken as recommended, works chiefly in the lower bowel where it removes only waste, not good food! You avoid that typical weak, tired, worn-out feeling. Use FEEN-A-MINT and feel your "pep," energetic self! Get FEEN-A-MINT! No increase in price—still 25c, 50c or only 10c.

Just what is inflation?

It's money that seems more valuable than it really is. When there's a greater supply of money than of goods . . . when it takes more and more money to buy fewer and fewer things — that's inflation. It happens when goods get scarce, and you and your neighbors compete unfairly for these few goods. That boosts prices — up and up, until the prices of more and more things are higher than you can afford to pay.

The danger of inflation is already here!

Will it get worse — as more peacetime goods get scarce? That depends upon you and every other American. We can halt inflation — if all of us voluntarily will follow the rules listed below. Let's all pull together to lick inflation. It will take all 150 million of us to do the job!

Here's what all of us must do to halt INFLATION*

Business, Government and Everybody must:

1. Strive for still more efficient production.
2. Halt the upward spiral of prices and wages.
3. Buy only for current needs. Hold business inventories down.
4. Curtail all non-essential government spending and support moves toward this end.
5. Save in every way! Buy U. S. Defense Bonds.
6. Support credit restrictions.
7. Support higher taxes to help balance the budget.

IT WILL TAKE ALL 150 MILLION OF US TO LICK INFLATION
